Professional Indemnity

Professional Indemnity Insurance covers the legal costs and financial loss that might arise from negligent or erroneous advice or other services provided to third parties. Typical services are:

- Legal (e.g. personal injury, employment, corporate, transactional)
- Finance & insurance (e.g. tax planning, investments, loss adjustment, broking)
- Accounting (e.g. financial accounting, external auditing, tax accounting)
- Construction & engineering (e.g. architects, engineers, builders)
- Surveying (e.g. property, land, arts & antiques, environment)

The professional service providers can be regulated by law or public authority meaning that there is a regulatory requirement to register with a competent authority prior to practicing their profession. Some professions are self-regulated by their professional bodies who set the professional standards and code of practice. Many professions remain unregulated and require no license, certificate or registration or on a voluntary basis only.

The term “Miscellaneous professions” regroups the service providers who are self- or non-regulated. These miscellaneous professions are Alta Signa’s main business target.
